YOUR FUTURE

As a COSMETOLOGIST

True or false, thick or thin, light or dark... hair will be your main interest, if you choose to be a cosmetologist.

Popularly known as beauty operators or hairdressers, cosmetologists give permanent waves, shampoo, cut, set, style, straighten, bleach, and tint hair and clean and style wigs. They also give scalp and facial treatments, manicures, and advice on make-up. Many specialize in different phases of the work and opportunities are great.

Most cosmetologists work in small independent salons, but many are employed in beauty shops in hotels and department stores. They help bring beauty and glamor to the women of the world, but often they find glamor and excitement themselves in positions with movie and television studios, on ocean liners, and in vacation resorts.

To be a cosmetologist, you must be friendly, work well with your hands, be well groomed, and have an eye for fashion. A state-approved cosmetology course, which takes from six months to a year, is required for a state license. As a beginner in the field, you can expect to earn about $100 a week, and there is lots of room at the top, with salaries of $300 a week or more for outstanding stylists.

YOUR FUTURE

© 1969 BY WESTERN PUBLISHERS COMPANY, INC.

As an AIR TRAFFIC CONTROLLER

You will literally be a guardian of the airways, if you choose to be an air traffic controller. Pilots of all aircraft will rely on you to guide them along their routes or to safe landings or take-offs.

Governing several aircraft at a time, an air traffic controller gives instructions and information to pilots by radio. In doing so, he must consider the weather, geography, the amount of traffic, and the speeds and types of aircraft. He also records all messages received from the planes and operates airfield electronic equipment.

Air traffic controllers are employed by the Federal Aviation Administration. To become one, you must be at least 21 years old and speak clearly. You must pass a rigid physical examination and a Federal Civil Service test. If accepted, you would begin an extensive training period of about two years to become a controller. Demanding classroom and on-the-job training would prepare you to work under pressure and stress and to handle emergency situations, as well.

Salaries begin at about $500 a month for a trainee. Raises are periodic. A full-fledged controller earns about $1000 a month, and chief controllers in busy areas often earn at least $1500 a month.
